This year, GAWDA President Britt Lovin and his wife Julie are excited to announce WINGS “Women Involved in Nurturing, Giving, Sharing, Inc.” as the 2009 recipient of GAWDA GIVES BACK. WINGS was founded in 1999 by two breast cancer survivors. Imagine that you have been told you have breast cancer. Worse you have little or no insurance and no way to pay the average $98,285 cost for full treatment. WINGS believes no one should die from breast cancer because they do not have adequate funds to pursue medical treatment that would allow them to defeat their cancer and continue to live life to the fullest. The program offers comprehensive breast cancer screening and treatment at no charge to the patient.

WINGS receives no government funding and relies solely on donations from foundations, corporations and individuals. WINGS is designed to fill the vacuum that exists between detection and treatment. Ninety-two percent of the funds go directly to patient treatment and care. In the face of this disease, WINGS remains committed to its mission- focusing on one woman at a time because everyone deserves a lifetime. Your GAWDA Gives Back donation will help WINGS fulfill its mission.

GAWDA GIVES BACK donations are tax deductible.
