Seller Notes: All are in good shape and were just pulled from service in favor of lighter models. We have at LEAST five thousand, probably a lot more but getting an exact count is not practical. They are currently filled, so they cannot simply be scrapped without purging. We can also provide hydro-testing/certification by request at a reasonable fee per cylinder but obviously that would involve letting the cylinder vent out so no O2 would be included.
Looking to have someone give us a per cylinder offer and just come take them all or a large chunk. A count could be done as they were loaded. We are ok offering them in smaller amounts but preference is given to bulk quantities
